REDS REBUFF AMERICAN ATTACK, HOLD OLD BALDY

Great Mortars Of Both Sides Engage in Fight

Seoul (AP)—Fighting in a rain of American fire, Chinese Reds broke up a two-pointed U.S. attack today in the bloody trenches of Old Baldy.

At nightfall the Americans were back where they started, about 125 yards down the line, windswept Western Front hill.

The fighting, now in its third day, was vicious and deadly.

One officer said the Americans drew Red fire "every time they popped their heads up."

As darkness fell, infantry fighting eased off while the big guns of both sides slugged it out.

The Reds swept over Old Baldy Monday night and the Americans have been trying to get it back since.

One American attack force pushed off this morning toward a trench network on the north-east and was stopped cold.

Another lashed out toward the northwest. A division officer said his one "got close" but was finally ordered back in the afternoon "when the going got too rough."

It was trench-fighting, a blaze of close-quarter grenades and small arms fire.

The officer said there are apparently two Red companies on Baldy holding two trench networks. The Americans hold the other.

Associated Press correspondent Stan Carter reported from the Seventh Division that American tanks pushed around the flank of the hill to cut up Chinese reinforcements.

ELIZABETH DECREES MONTH'S MOURNING FOR DOWAGER QUEEN MARY

GOP CANCELS POSTMASTERS EXAMINATIONS

Washington (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has canceled out more than 1,400 examinations for jobs as postmasters, most of them reported to have been won by Democrats.

The avowed aim of the action, announced last night, is to "establish higher standards of eligibility."

Postmaster General Summerfield and Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission, in a joint statement, said new tests to be held will require a higher passing grade and will put some emphasis on business experience "or comparable training."

An administration source who predicted the move two weeks ago had commented that most of the examinations were won by Democrats. Those who qualified have not actually been appointed postmasters, except in a few cases on a temporary basis.

Republicans eager for federal patronage after 20 years out of national power have been complaining that present lists of persons qualified to be postmasters are made up almost exclusively of Democrats.

"EVERY INCH A QUEEN" perfectly described Queen Mary. Her regal bearing in this picture is especially poignant.

Mother of Two British Kings Dies in Sleep

London (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today decreed a month's mourning for Queen Mary, thus carrying out the wish of her grandmother that nothing interfere with Elizabeth's coronation in June. Ending the period of mourning after a month will allow plenty of time for pre-coronation arrangements and activities.

Queen Mary died peacefully in her sleep last night at the age of 85.

Elizabeth, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, was among the descendants of Queen Mary who drove slowly up to Marlborough House today. All were attired in deep mourning. Their faces were heavy with grief and they bowed their heads as they walked into Queen Mary's home to discuss funeral arrangements.

Elizabeth and her husband stayed for 40 minutes. Other visitors included the Queen Mother, Elizabeth Princess Margaret, the Duke of Windsor, the Duchess of Kent (widow of Mary's fifth child) and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The Duke of Windsor—Mary's fourth child—renounced the throne in 1936 to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson, an American divorcee, drove up alone. In New York, the duchess said she was greatly distressed by the news of the Queen's death and had canceled all social arrangements. The duchess had never been received by her mother-in-law.

The funeral probably will not be held at Westminster Abbey because of the coronation building work in progress there. The services may be conducted at St. Paul's Cathedral in London or in St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle. Queen Mary will be buried beside her husband, George V, in St. George's Chapel, ancient burial place of Britain's kings and queens.

Months ago the stern-willed old grandmother, in speaking to friends about the coronation, said "nothing must interfere with it."

Queen Mary had been ill for more than a month with what her doctors described as a gastric ailment. The exact nature of her illness has not been disclosed.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill gave the hushed House of Commons—and the world—the first news of her death last night.

Holding a single sheet of white paper in his trembling hand, the dinner-jacketed government leader said in a voice breaking with sobs:

Soviet Policy On UN Issues Is Unrelenting

United Nations, N. Y. (AP)—The continuing bitterness of debate on every deadlocked East-West issue tempered the hopes today of some U. N. delegates that Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky may bring back some sign of Soviet conciliation from his high-level talks in Moscow.

On nearly every issue now confronting the U. N., delegates have felt that Soviet policy cannot be fully and finally appraised until Vishinsky comes back from his consultations with the post-Stalin regime in the Kremlin. He is due to arrive in New York tomorrow aboard the liner Queen Mary.

The voices of Soviet bloc representatives have been as vitriolic as ever in their attacks against the United States during recent debates. They have given no hint that Soviet Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov's recent "peace talk" bodes an easing of world tensions. In the 60-nation political committee, delegates were scheduled to take up debate again today on Czechoslovakia's charge that the United States is financing and directing espionage and subversion to overthrow the East European Communist governments.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. already has denied categorically the Soviet bloc charges, which have been echoed by Russia's Andrei Gromyko and Poland's Julius Katz-Suchy.

Undercover Man Is Heard in Red Trial

Pittsburgh (AP)—A second FBI undercover man is testifying in the U. S. District Court trial of five Communists charged with conspiring to overthrow the government by force.

Dewey C. Price, 55, of Charleston, W. Va., said yesterday he joined the Communist party in February of 1949 while working for the FBI. He identified Irving Weissman as a West Virginia party organizer and said he attended several meetings where Weissman appeared as a party leader.

The government put Price on the witness stand following almost five days of testimony by Matthew Cvetic, former FBI undercover man. On trial with Weissman are Steve Nelson, former Western Pennsylvania Communist party chairman, and Benjamin Careathers, James Dolson and William Albertson, all party aides.

Obscure Clerk Is Sought As Scotland Yard Finds Fourth Rotting Corpse in Apartment

London (AP)—Discovery of a fourth rotting female corpse today in a London "house of death" apartment spurred a Scotland Yard hunt for a quiet little clerk who had rented the lodging.

The bodies of three women were found walled-up in a pantry in drab Notting Hill district yesterday. The fourth, like the first three still unidentified, was under the floorboards of the same room.

One of the dead women was believed by police to be the wife of the central figure in the general manhunt underway—55-year old John Christie, the last tenant of the apartment.

A police post-mortem indicated the first three women found—all between 25 and 30 years old—had been strangled.

Police with shovels and crowbars searched other rooms and began digging in the garden patch behind the house.

Three of the women were believed to have been dead several months, and the other a few weeks.

The new discovery brought to six the number of violent deaths in the grim house in recent years. A woman and her son were murdered there in 1949.

Bill Would Provide Ten Millions For State Rural Roads

Harrisburg (AP)—Rural roads would receive the biggest proportion of state financial aid under a new plan advanced in the Senate.

A bill introduced by Sens. George B. Stevenson (R-Clinton), A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield) and William J. Lane (D-Washington) yesterday would appropriate 10 million dollars in state aid to second class townships for highway maintenance.

The appropriation would be part of a general increase of five million dollars to a total of 20 million offered by the commonwealth in aid to all municipalities. Twenty per cent, however, would have to be met on a matching basis.

Equaling the 10 million to go to second class townships would be another 10 million to be offered to cities, towns, boroughs and first class townships.

During the present biennium the state granted a yearly total of 12 million dollars for aid to all municipalities with another three million offered on a matching basis.

Certification of the various communities for state aid, in maintaining roads and bridges is made by the State Highways Department. The money comes from the state motor license fund.

Great Lakes Ports Will Open Saturday

Cleveland (AP)—The Great Lakes and their ports were stirring from their winter lethargy today, and it appeared the navigation season may open at the fourth earliest date in recent history.

Most shipping sources were their usual non-committal selves, but a U. S. Steel Corp. spokesman predicted the official opening of the ore-shipping season would be next Saturday. He said a ship from the firm's Pittsburgh Steamship Division expected to pass through the Sault Ste. Marie Locks then.

The earliest recent date for ore-boat passage through the locks and the St. Mary's River was March 22 in 1942. The season opened on March 25 in 1945, 1946 and 1949. Last year, the opening was April 3.

Location Still Sought For Airplane Spotters

Members of the Ground Observation Corps of the Warren County Civilian Defense unit are still anxiously endeavoring to secure a suitable site to be used for airplane spotters. According to reports a proposal to erect a structure at War Memorial Field has practically been abandoned.

Among the locations under consideration by Observation Corps officials, it is reported, are the roof garden of the Moose building, 221 Hickory street, and the roof of the Warren Bank & Trust Company building. These are the two tallest structures in Warren and so centrally located that it would appear either would be well suited for spotting of planes.

Home Counties Face Rioters' Court Costs

Harrisburg (AP)—A House-passed bill to have counties from which prisoners are sentenced bear the court costs involved when the inmates riot or break prison head—ed for the Senate today.

The bill passed the House yesterday, 109-73, after Rep. Philip Lopresti (D-Cambria) debated that the state, not the sentencing county, should pay for the additional costs.

Rep. Preston A. Frost (R-Centre) who sponsored the bill with Rep. Edwin Tompkins (R-Cameron), pointed out that the bill was designed to relieve counties in which state prisons are located from being required to absorb court costs.

The Sugar Grove student is fourth-place winner in a contest sponsored by the Cleveland Aviation Club. At the Hotel Hollenden dinner Landin will receive his award from aviator Roscoe Turner.

The prize winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Landin of Sugar Grove.

Westmoreland Seeks Costs of 3 Trials

Ebensburg (AP)—Westmoreland County is seeking $2,285 in court costs from three men twice convicted of taking part in a New Kensington picket line disturbance.

Claiming they have no money, the trio asked Cambria County Court last October to excuse them from paying the costs of their two trials. Westmoreland County officials opposed the action here yesterday at a hearing. It was continued for 30 days to give the three time to file answers.

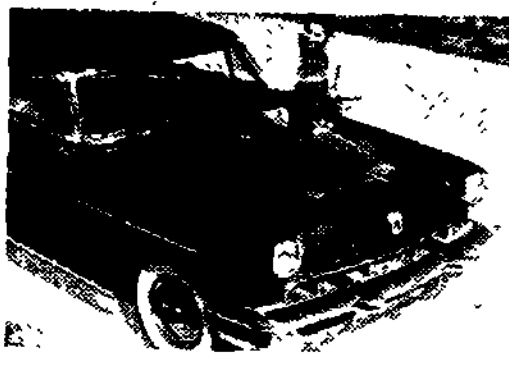

They are Harry W. Truitt, 50, of New Kensington; Lester B. Peay, 28, of Wilkinsburg, near Pittsburgh; and Robert T. Smith, 23, of Detroit.

Outstanding Performance

Donald R. Cable, AD3-USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cable, of Akeley, is a member of Carrier Air Group Nine aboard the USS Philippine Sea which has been cited for "outstanding performance" by Captain Paul H. Ramsey, CO of the carrier. His personal appreciation to Group Nine was expressed in these words: "I am very happy with the spirit and fine performance exhibited today by all four squadrons of Carrier Air Group Nine. Availability of aircraft in all squadrons was excellent; flight deck performance was fine; and pilots taxied at a safe, reasonable speed and still cleared the gear expeditiously. Take-offs were excellent in spite of heavy bomb loads and low wind conditions. Landings and landing intervals were also noteworthy and up to standard. A 'Well Done' to Carrier Air Group Nine." Further explanation of his message is contained in the following recommendation given each man of the Group by his own commanding officer, A. T. Holderman: "For the past 21 days the men of Fighter Squadron 94, under adverse weather conditions and at all hours, have demonstrated the fine qualities in man, which measured in any sense, mean ultimate victory. Victory over those forces which are detrimental to our God, our Country, and our homes. This has taken more than a try; this has taken fortitude.

"Fighter Squadron 94 has met 100% of the missions so assigned us by the Task Force Commander. This could not have been accomplished were it not for your extreme loyalty and devotion to duty toward the United States Navy. Soon, we shall have completed our first tour on the line together. As that time draws near we must endeavor to keep the high standards of performance which you so far have set, and should do this at all times, realizing that a lowering in vigilance can deter us from our mutual purpose."

"The Officers of Fighter Squadron 94 are proud of the men of Fighter Squadron 94 and the Commanding Officer is most proud of

Lions Hear Fithian Describe Bell Co. Television Chains

A description of the new "radio relay" system which passes network television programs and telephone calls across the country highlighted the address presented by R. Graham Fithian, public relations representative of the Bell Telephone Company, to Warren Lions at their luncheon-meeting in the YWCA yesterday.

A business meeting preceded the talk, when President James Mazzu informed the membership that the club will attend Holy Week services in the First Baptist Church at 12:20 next Tuesday and then return to the YWCA for the luncheon. Members are asked to congregate in front of the church prior to the service.

Among routine reports, Myron Jewell, committee treasurer for the Mills Brothers Circus, gave a financial statement on the advance sale of tickets. The circus will appear in Warren under the auspices of the Lions Club on May 16 and 17, for either general admission or reserved seats can be purchased from any club members.

Andy Donick, treasurer of the Heart Fund campaign, reported the fund still almost $500 short of the $4500 quota and expressed his hopes that this goal would be reached by the close of the drive. Contributions to the Heart Fund can be mailed to Post Office Box 145 in Warren.

Oil Association Has Praise for Gavin's Rap at Navy's Plan

The Independent Petroleum Association of America, in its current news summary, calls effective attention to the recent forceful address by Congressman L. H. Gavin, of Oil City, who exposed the costly experimentation of "Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4," a ghost of the former Canol project, which socked the American taxpayers for a cool $130 million.

Headed "The Ghost of Canol Goes Out the Same Door," the article recites:

"Congressman Leon Gavin of Pennsylvania addressed the House of Representatives on March 9, Congressman Gavin will be recalled as having conducted a long and effective exposure of the ill-fated Canol project to point up government intervention in industry.

"Congressman Gavin has recently concerned himself with another project. On March 9 he called the House's attention to the fact that the Canol project had cost the taxpayers $138,000,000 without benefits. This project was conducted by the Army.

"As soon as the demise of the Canol project was made certain, its ghost arose in the Navy Department under the heading of Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4, at Point Barrow, Alaska. Congressman Gavin pointed out that this ghost of the former Canol had cost the taxpayers something more than $45,000,000.

"Mr. Gavin, a member of the Armed Services Committee, paid high tribute to the new Secretary of the Navy, Robert Anderson. He stated that the secretary had appeared before the Armed Services Committee and had advised that the Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4 should and would be suspended at once.

"Congressman Gavin has again revealed the planners who must play at the expense of the taxpayer."

Chrysler Cuts Its Car, Truck Prices

Detroit (AP)—Chrysler Corp. cut the prices on all its cars and trucks today.

The automobile company, one of the "Big three" of the car industry, said the government's abandonment of price controls was a factor in its decision.

It was the first major price change in the auto industry since the removal of controls.

To the industry it came as something of a surprise in view of recent increased manufacturing costs.

The cuts range from $67.50 on four-door cars in the moderate-priced field up to $278.40 on one deluxe model. All cuts are on the factory retail prices at Detroit.

Truck prices also were cut. Chrysler said these average $40.

President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler cited an increase in recent production by his company as compared to production last year under price controls. He said there has been a 32 per cent increase.

WALLY OUTRID

Warren loses a most valuable citizen and an efficient public servant in the passing of Wally Outrid, acting desk sergeant and member of the borough police department for almost a quarter of a century.

A native of the Scandia area where he was born May 24, 1895, Wally Outrid had spent his entire life in and around Warren and Jamestown, excepting for about 18 months when he was overseas as a member of the Armed Forces of his country.

All officials connected with the borough administration endorse the sentiments expressed by Chief of Police M. Evan when he said, upon hearing of the passing of his valued associate, "He had the best practical police knowledge of any officer in this section."

Quiet and unassuming, Wally readily made and held friends. The fine attributes of his character had won him wide esteem throughout the community, among both old and young. He was ever kindly and considerate in his dealings with the public, he was faithful to the trust reposed in him, and his record in the department was one of loyal service and efficiency.

Wally Outrid was the solid type of citizen who makes for a better community. Always ready and willing to lend his cooperation and advice to the newspaper fraternity, we, as well as everyone who knew and enjoyed his friendship, will sorely miss him.

A SOLEMN MOMENT

From the Rite Recorder as reprinted in the Coudersport Consistory Bulletin

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal unrest and millions of our fellow citizens are fearful of the future.

"In Europe and Asia the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty. Russia hangs, as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent, upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly disturbed relations in China and India.

"It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference which happily, no man pretends to feel—in the issue of events.

"Of our own troubles (in the U. S. A.) no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly political and commercial; and if are to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously despair. We are to resist and subdue the forces which are the occasion of this widespread evil and harmful distress.

"The sunshine comes and goes. the clouds lower and pass. The road has its peaks and its sloughs. But, with feet firmly planted on God's good earth, with a heart full of courage and love, we can join in the work of creation by making out of the world what God intended."

Harper's Weekly. Above editorial appeared in the Oct. 10, 1887 issue of the paper.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

Verily, verily, I say unto thee Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God—John 3:3

Today's Message

There is no better "self" until God has made it so. It is not given to human nature to think the thoughts of peace and purity. History may have changed, but human nature has ever remained the same. Its work has ever been destructive in thought-life and deadening in action. That is due to the presence of sin in our lives.

We must be "born from above" before we can appreciate the good and love it. The "Kingdom of Heaven" must be a state of mind before it can be anything else. If men, by the grace of God, can be made to think new thoughts, and to live new lives, then their tastes will alter, their surroundings will change, and the world may hope for peace.

We need to appreciate this today more than ever. There was never a time when the redemption of human nature was more imperative than it is today. A complete and immediate deliverance from the bondage of sin is the only thing that will keep this age from suicide.

Backdrop to Perdition

Here And There

Theatregoers fifty years ago depended upon stage shows and lyceum course numbers for principal amusement. An attraction always looked forward to with keen anticipation was the appearance of Denman Thompson, who was in his day, what Cary Grant and Lionel Barrymore are to the movie and radio world today. In that connection it is interesting to note that it was fifty years ago today that The Evening Mirror carried a story on the first page announcing in a headline: "Aged Thespian Once More Visits Warren. Denman Thompson seventy years old but still active." Said the article.

Denman Thompson arrived in Warren this forenoon from Titusville and will play the role of "Joshua Whitcomb" in "The Old Homestead" at the Library Theatre this evening. The aged thespian was approached by a Mirror reporter today and queried for a few facts regarding his theatrical career. He replied, saying "Tell them I will be seventy years old my next birthday and am well; that is all!"

Mr. Thompson has appeared in Warren a dozen times probably. He was first seen here in "Roscoe Hall" years ago and in "Old Homestead" in which he has been playing for 17 years he has made several subsequent visits.

He is quite active for one of his years and will doubtless be seen this evening to the best advantage in the play of which he is the author. Other plays may come and go, but "Old Homestead," like Tennyson's "brook," is destined, apparently, to go on forever. It is apparent from the appearance of the chart at Manager Scott's store, that the piece appeals as strongly as ever to the people of Warren. There will not be a vacant seat in the house when the curtain is raised.

In another column we find: "Announcement was made today that a late trolley car will run to Sheffield after the production of 'Old Homestead'."

★ EDSON IN WASHINGTON ★

Keyserling Would Judge CEA By Its Stand on 3 Big Issues

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Full Employment act is now generally credited as the brain child of Jim Patton of the National Farmers' Union. He sold the idea to Senator Murray of Montana. Senator Murray had Leon Keyserling and Bert Gross—who later became vice-chairman and secretary of the Council of Economic Advisers set up by the act—whip it into legislative form. There were the usual hearings and the law passed in 1946.

At that time there was considerable fear of a postwar depression with unemployment of eight million or so. Anything that would help plan for economic stability seemed like a good idea.

The depression never happened, so CEA never had to bother about that. But it had other things to worry about.

What the then-new Council of Economic Advisers set out to do in 1947 was to spell out a co-ordinated economic policy for the whole United States.

It is impossible to review all the recommendations made by the council here, or to tell what happened to them. Leon Keyserling, who recently resigned as chairman of CEA, lists three major economic issues of the period as a fair basis on which to judge the worth of the Full Employment act and CEA idea.

FIRST was the threat of recession in 1949. Many people thought it would lead to a depression. Labor leaders advised that the government increase spending. Business leaders advised that government cut taxes, approve wage cuts and layoffs to reduce full employment, which was considered inflationary.

CEA, in its mid-1949 report, said the recession would be of short and shallow duration and that none of the above extreme measures should be taken. CEA recommended no increase in public works spending, no cuts in taxes and full business expansion.

Now nobody claims this CEA recommendation was the sole conditioning factor. But by early 1950—before Korea—there was recovery beyond the 1948 boom.

In 1948-49, the argument had been over whether the U. S. could afford a $12 or $13 billion defense budget. In 1950, after fighting in Korea began, there was much talk that U. S. domestic economy would have to be cut back sharply to meet a larger program.

CEA then took the position that the U. S. economy had the power to take care of defense needs and at the same time maintain a higher level of civilian consumption. This stand was regarded as ludicrous at the time. But even with adjustment for higher prices, it can now be shown that the U. S. economy of 1952 and 1953 has expanded beyond 1950-51 levels.

THE third big economic issue arose over the question of inflation. One school of thought was that, at the beginning of the Korean war, everything should be frozen—wages, prices, manpower, materials.

Sticking to a belief in the need for constant expansion of American industry, CEA opposed the freeze and advocated a faster build-up of production so as to meet defense needs without controls. This line was followed in part by Congress, but not wholly.

The result of the fair balance attempt has been that since the beginning of 1952, most of the growth in the U. S. economy has not been in defense, but in civilian production. And the recession which was then predicted by some for early 1953 has now been pushed back to 1954.

These are the highlights of the background on which President Eisenhower must base his decision on whether he wants to continue CEA—or try to let one man do the job.

Terse, Tait and Tumely: Fifty years ago this week navigation was opened on Chautauqua Lake when the steamer Cleveland made a round trip from Jamestown to Mayville, marking the earliest opening on record. . . . Jobs for at least 400 men will be available along Erie's bayfront when the shipping season gets under way April first, Patrick J. Grant, veteran stevedoring official, predicts. . . . A report from Washington says the Post Office has temporarily decided against an increase of 20 cents in charges for parcel post packages that exceed certain size and weight requirements, or have a form or contain goods that cannot be handled in mail sacks. . . . Right of way crews are in action on a new "Big Inch" line through the Kane area hacking their way through forest and brush in preparation for the start on or about April 15th of the new 24-inch gas line from Mercer into the Hebron Gas field near Coudersport. . . . Officers and directors have decided that the Cambridge Springs Community Fair will be suspended this year. . . . Attorney George M. O'Hara, at one time a candidate for state senator from the Warren-Venango district, has filed a petition for the Democratic nomination for the office of mayor of Franklin.

YESTERDAY

he stalled!

TODAY

he didn't!

Esso Extra Gasoline made the difference

The reason is that Esso Extra Gasoline... and only Esso Extra now contains an added ingredient... a built-in anti-freeze to prevent one of the commonest kinds of stalling. This kind of stalling is caused by "carburetor icing." It can happen to nearly all cars in damp, cool weather (30° to 55°), and can't be cured by a mechanic. Esso Extra is especially good in cars with automatic transmissions where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. In addition to this protection, you get Esso Extra's famous combination of qualities... quick starting, fast warm-up, high anti-knock, power, and long mileage... everything you need for Happy Motoring from the instant you touch the starter. Is it any wonder more motorists use Esso Extra than any other premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers?

Girls and Boys Can Win Prizes in Our Bugs Bunny Easter Coloring Contest

Here's good news for girls and boys! Easter season is a time of rabbits and egg coloring, the perfect time to give you a BUGS BUNNY EASTER COLORING CONTEST. So that's what we are going to do. Every girl and boy up to 12 years old can have the fun of coloring three BUGS BUNNY sketches with crayons or paint. And here's the big treat—every one of you has an equal opportunity to win a prize.

The first BUGS BUNNY picture appears with this story, and shows Bugs preparing some eggs for Easter. All you have to do is color this sketch, and write your name, age and address in the space provided.

Then watch for the next two sketches, and do some more coloring. When all three pictures are colored, and you have written your name, age and address on all three, mail them (or bring them) in one batch to the BUGS BUNNY CONTEST, Warner Brothers Library Theatre. Don't mail or deliver them separately.

That's all there is to it, kids! It's a lot of fun, and it's easy, if you follow the rules appearing below.

Here are the prizes that will be awarded for the best coloring jobs: One ticket of admission to the Library Theatre for each of the ten best drawings.

CONTEST RULES

1. Every girl and boy up to 12 years old, except children of employees of this newspaper, is eligible.
2. Clip all three Bugs Bunny sketches, color them and print your name, age and address at the bottom of each one.
3. When all three sketches are colored and signed, mail them (or bring them) to the BUGS BUNNY CONTEST, Warner Brothers Library Theatre.
4. All entries must be received by April 1st.
5. Judging will be on the basis of nice coloring and neatness.

Unusual Honor To Be Shown the Betty Lee Store Thursday

The Betty Lee store in Warren will receive recognition from the National Retail Dry Goods Association Thursday night at a dinner in the YWCA given by radio station WNAE. About 100 retailers from the Warren area will meet to honor Betty Lee and to hear an address by Simon Goldman, secretary of the Broadcast Advertising Bureau.

Betty Lee has received first place award in the recent National Retail Dry Goods Association contest for a radio spot announcement campaign. The first place prize was awarded in competition with leading stores all over the nation, in both small and large cities. The Warren store's prize-winning campaign was presented last summer on the occasion of Betty Lee's anniversary and was tied in with the appearance in Warren of Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Jacob Levinson is manager of the Betty Lee and Mrs. Mildred Bendix is advertising director. The award will be presented by Mr. Goldman who will then give the main address of the evening and answer questions put to him by the retail merchants.

Goldman is manager of Station WJTN, Jamestown and a member of the National Association of Broadcasters executive committee. When the industry's trade association decided to set up a division devoted to small market station activities, Goldman was named a member of the executive committee and a year later became its chairman. In 1949 he was named to the NAB radio committee, becoming its chairman in 1950.

A graduate of Syracuse University in 1935, magna cum laude, the speaker became sales manager of WJTN in the same year and has been there ever since, except for a tour of Army duty during World War II.

Busy Session For Region Auxiliary

Members of Chief Cornplanter Unit 135, American Legion Auxiliary, enjoyed movies preceding the regular meeting held last evening at the Legion Home.

Mrs. J. G. Kiernan, American Legion chairman, introduced O. C. Tritt, who operated the projector to show the American Cancer Society film, "Man Alive," a timely and educational film in cartoon form, emphasizing the seven danger signals leading to early detection of cancer.

Mr. Tritt also ran the film, "Girls' State," made last summer at Keystone Girls' Camp at Camp Legion, Scotland, Pa. This film was especially enjoyed by Beverly Sidon of Warren and Helen Smiley, of Sheffield, who attended the camp last July.

Following the program, the meeting was opened in the usual manner, with the president, Mrs. William Germonito, presiding. After reports of standing committees had been read, several money-making projects were presented to the unit and discussed by the membership. Plans for a rummage sale will be completed if a suitable place can be found in which to conduct it.

Mrs. Marvin Loper called on members for more aid in the civil defense project sponsored by the auxiliary, since the aid of all will be needed of the plans are to be carried out successfully. Members are to call her for further information and to volunteer their services.

Mrs. Germonito announced there is still time to knit sweaters for the children of Korea, under the national child welfare program.

The unit voted to donate a crate of eggs to the Legion's annual Easter Egg Hunt and heard a report from the vice president, Mrs. Alan Buerkle, concerning the Saturday evening birthday party given for the Legion.

A social period followed adjournment, with refreshments served by Mrs. Leon Christensen and her committee, with Mrs. Howard Hilleman, Mrs. William Wedlock, Mrs. Willis Lundahl, as assisting hostesses.

Mother of Two British Kings Dies in Sleep

(From Page One)

"Mr. Speaker, I rise to move adjournment of the House. I have with great regret to make the announcement that Queen Mary has died."

A few cries of dismay from public galleries broke the quiet.

As Churchill spoke, a solemn attendant a few blocks away posted the fourth and last medical bulletin of the day on the gates of Marlborough House.

Edged in black, it said simply: "While sleeping peacefully, Queen Mary died at twenty minutes past ten o'clock."

Four generations of Britons who knew and loved her as the proud symbol of royalty paid their tribute. Throughout the far-flung British Commonwealth, with 575 million inhabitants, flags were dipped and minutes of silence observed.

FUND DRIVE DELAYED
Members of Corry's special recreation committee in a meeting Monday reluctantly decided that the time is "inopportune" to conduct a public solicitation to raise $125,000 with which to build an outdoor swimming pool at Mead Park. Weighing heavily in this direction were three factors: the proposed new school, the sewage treatment plant and the extensive building programs planned for the summer by some of the city's industrial concerns. At the time the committee first began planning the fund drive last fall only the school was publicly known to be a certain development. Since then the state has handed down an order forcing the city to construct a half million dollar sewage treatment plant and industrial concerns have launched building projects in expanding their facilities.

Talk About a Possible Slump May Play Major Role in the 53 Labor-Management Tussle

New York (AP)—The talk about possible slump later on may play major role in this year's labor-management tussle over wages and hours.

Fear that the boom may be in a final months is making some executives wary of taking on high costs. And worry about a slump, according to business scouts, is making some unions concentrate on share-the-job plans through shorter weeks, and on the various fringe benefits of pensions, holidays and insurance.

Wage hike demands will be pushed, of course. The question is whether pay boosts this year will be as big as last.

Wage increases actually started sliding after wage controls ended, according to the National Foremen's Institute of New London, Conn.

During January, it reports, negotiated increases averaged around 10 cents an hour. Since controls were lifted early in February, settlements have averaged under nine cents an hour.

The 1952 wage hike pattern was around 15 cents an hour. Some management sources are now guessing that the 1953 boost for all industries will average nearer five cents. But they predict that the unions will seek compensation through side benefits.

The shorter work week is getting a big hand from some workers.

Whether wishful thinking or not, here are the reasons management advances for predicting smaller wage boosts and fewer big strikes this year: Previous wage hikes have put weekly earnings fairly high and erased old grievances; the cost of living is beginning to slip; both management and labor fear a slump and don't want to rock the boat now.

The Foremen's Institute adds another: "Workers can't afford to stay out on strikes during good times."

Whether wage demands may or may not be pushed so hard this year, the fringe parade continues. There are such goals as winter vacations, maternity leaves, hospitalization pay, and a holiday on your birthday.

The institute notes still another, "the roving holiday." This is a demand that the employee be allowed to select any day in the year as his own personal paid holiday.

The first atom bomb was exploded at Alamogordo, N. Mex., July 16, 1945.

Today Can be a Red Letter Day

IF YOU DON'T HAVE ACID INDIGESTION

Today and every day, you'll be "sitting on top of the world"—having fun eating, drinking what you like without fear of gas, heartburn, sour stomach. If you do as millions do, just eat 1 or 2 Tums after meals or whenever over-indulgence brings on distress. For Tums quickly neutralize excess acid. Chapter 21
SAN FRANCISCO was a relief. The streets were crowded with noisy, and in the night and sounds that found it possible, or so she thought, to lose herself utterly. She plunged with zest into the task of helping her mother track down exactly the right suit for the important candidate for the office of mayor.

After the suit had been selected and ordered, she went for a walk along Marina Boulevard. She looked wistfully at her mother in staid black and Nancy in warm red. "You wouldn't want to go to Clear Lake, would you?"

"Too late," said Ellen Carlisle simply. She led them over to a bench. "Who wants to eat, and where?"

"Fishermen's Wharf is out," Nancy declared. "I want an Italian dinner."

"Lunch, brat."

"Mom, make her stop picking on me!"

They had dinner. Ruth noticed that in an unobtrusive way her mother was beginning to side with Nancy more and more. Yet she didn't resent it. After all, Nancy was being loyal to their father. For Nancy there were no "ifs, and" or "buts." Their father was running for mayor. Their father needed all the support he could get. Nancy, loyally, was giving her all. A few days ago Ruth had caught Nancy delivering a campaign speech in Mr. Schultz's grocery-store on Main Street. Vote for my Dad," Nancy had whooped. "Because you know darned well he's honest and efficient and loves Golden City."

Someone had laughed.

Portly Mr. Schultz had not. He'd glowered at the scoffer. "Know a better reason for electing a mayor than that?"

THE VOICE OF LOVE William Neubauer

Chapter 20
HE came out the back door of the cottage. If it gave him a start to see Bob there in the patio, his grim face gave no indication. He pumped Bob's hand as Ruth made the introductions. "Let's consider, just for a moment, Mr. O'Brien."

"Call me Bob." Bob paused in the act of filling his pipe with tobacco. "Incidentally, you may as well know that I've loved Ruth a long time. If she chooses you all right. But until she does choose you I'll scrap."

"Bob!" reproved a girl with scarlet, burning cheeks.

Dan's sharp black eyes made her feel very young. "It has to be that way, Ruth. People have the right to love."

He turned his full attention to Bob. "In the first place," he said, "Doctor doesn't want it on that basis. He wants the community hospital, the fulfillment of his dream. In the second place, it would seem, he doesn't want me to practice in this town. I understand he's been checking up on me. Well, that's all right. He has a duty to his people to make sure they have the right to practice and the skill to practice. But this position to the practice itself—what am I to think but that he wants the whole plum, if plum it is, for himself?"

"He's never made money, Dr. Curtis. I don't think he considers it a plum."

"Nor do I. But will you explain, then, this opposition? I want to practice medicine and surgery here. I am qualified to do that. I think I'll do a better job if I have a hospital's facilities here, and I'm prepared to build such a place at my own expense. Is there anything so reprehensible in all that? Am I a monster to be called names, to be doubted, to be insulted, because I happen to want to earn my living in my own way? How would you tell if farmers in a community were to deny you the right to farm in your own way?"

This was meaty stuff. This was a man pleading for a fair chance, and since Bob had always believed in fair play it was highly effective. "You have the right to practice and build a hospital, it seems to me." He turned to Ruth. "What's eating Doctor?"

She spread her hands. "Who knows? Unless he is ready to retire, unless his dream means more to him than anything else."

But Bob couldn't accept that. He shot Dan's face a quick glance. "Suppose the city gives you permission to build? Will you submit to the control of the city?"

"No, sir, I would not. Put the question to yourself. Would you invest over a hundred thousand dollars of your own money in a business you could not control?"

The figure made even Ruth gasp.

BOB whistled. "That's a tidy sum. How could you expect to make that kind of money back?"

"In time the capital would be made back. I'm thirty-four. Say I practice, in one way or another, for as long as Doctor has. The hospital would return three or four thousand a year, it seems to me. And you forget the vital thing. It would be a help to me in my work. If you're putting it on a business basis, then you must take into account every fee I would get as doctor, as owner of the hospital, as director of the hospital, as seller of the hospital's services to the city and county and possibly state."

"A lifetime thing. Something like my setup out on the farm?" Dan grinned. "The work I want to do, Bob."

Bob O'Brien drew a deep breath. He liked the sound of that. He liked the bigness of Dan Curtis' thinking, too.

"My dad likes it," he announced. "As a matter of fact, so do I. Here's an idea. You could set aside a certain number of beds and ask the city to endow them. They would handle the poor, who couldn't pay."

Great!" Now Dan was on his feet, all smiles, all giddy elation. "By thunder, that's the first fairness I've met with yet! Luchetti and his crowd—they're in this for the political capital they think they'll make. But this—by thunder, put her there, Bob!"

The gray eyes twinkled. "As Ruth said, fair's fair. And speaking of fairness, may I have a few words alone with her?"

Dan had turned and left before Ruth could think of a protest.

"I love you," said Bob O'Brien. "Bob, please!"

"Very deeply," he went on. "And it'll be forever. And he doesn't love you, honey, nor do you love him."

She sprang to her feet. She stamped her foot. "Don't you dare say any more."

"I, for example, was aware of you all the time we were talking. He wasn't. He lives and breathes his plan for a long career. That's all right. That's fine. More power to him, and I'll help him all I can. But where does that leave you?"

"It leaves me where I want to be, Bob," her voice throbbled with emotional intensity. She seemed to live and breathe love and to exude love from her every pore. "Thanks, though. Thank you so very much."

"Thanks for loving you? Why, you're welcome, Ruth."

"I'll have to help Maggi now."

"He barked mocking laughter. "You always have to help Maggi when you want out. You ought to be more imaginative than that."

He went to the defendant, laughing figure. He took her into his arms and kissed her fiercely, almost savagely. His lips bruised. She wanted to cry out and fight. Then the kiss warmed her, and she clung to him until he himself broke the embrace.

"That's what I mean," Ruth. "That's what I mean."

She shuddered. She stared at him with haunted eyes, then cried out. Her nails raked at his face.

"Beast!" she screamed. "Beast! Beast! Beast!"

THE VOICE OF LOVE William Neubauer

A few days ago Ruth had caught Nancy delivering a campaign speech in Mr. Schultz's grocery-store on Main Street. Vote for my Dad," Nancy had whooped. "Because you know darned well he's honest and efficient and loves Golden City."

Someone had laughed.

Portly Mr. Schultz had not. He'd glowered at the scoffer. "Know a better reason for electing a mayor than that?"

Inside her she yearned more and more for Clear Lake with its lovely mornings, its vacation people and vacation sports. By the time she returned to Golden City for the new school term most of the future would be over. Then, perhaps, she could make order of living again. "I ought to get away for a while," she tried again. "After all, Mom, if I think Dad's wrong I'll blurt it out sooner or later. He deserves better."

"You bet he does! And so does Bob!"

"You told me you liked Dan! You told me that it had to be the man I loved!"

Back came the stormy, breathless answer. "That was before Dan said lies about Doctor and Dad."

"They weren't lies! They were truths!"

Again Mrs. Ellen Carlisle had to step between them in a figurative sort of way. She was laughing heartily now. "I don't know who's the younger! Really, I just don't know."

After that better controls were kept upon tempers. Neither Ruth nor Nancy said anything more to one another at dinner, and half the long ride home was made in silence.

THAT evening, for the first time in weeks, there was peace around the hotel. Mr. Hufford, coming home from his usual stroll to Mrs. Meyer's shop for ice-cream, found all the family seated harmoniously on the big veranda facing the sea. The sight delighted him. "Mind if I join you?" One of these days I shall paint your picture. I shall call it 'Love and Tranquility,' and I'll hang it over the fireplace in the big living-room."

"Hello, Mr. Hufford."

The tone of Ephraim Carlisle was the tone of a hard-hearted business-man. Wearily the artist dug into his pocket and produced a roll of bills. He peeled off five tens and handed them to the proprietor. "All right. There's the rest I owe you. Now we're even, eh?"

Nancy clapped her hands. "The old goat came through! Mr. Hufford, your stingy aunt came through!"

Ellen Carlisle was scandalized. The picture of "Love and Tranquility" was disintegrated. "Of all the dreadful things to say! Off to bed, young lady, this instant!"

"Quite wrong," said Mr. Hufford with hauteur. "As a matter of fact, I've sold a magazine cover. A pelican, a gull, a fat fish, and yours truly sprawled on the deck of the Dauntless Me."

This was really news. It called for a celebration, and the first person to suggest it was none other than the so-called hard-hearted business man. "Come to the cottage, Mr. Gifford. We have some cold roast chicken in the icebox, and a pitcher of fresh milk."

"Am I hearing things?" roared Mr. Hufford. He looked wildly about at their smiling faces. "Am I seeing things?"

Ruth chuckled. "We like to be adults, Mr. Hufford. I agree they have the right to their opinions, and they agree I have the right to mine."

While they went off around back, she went down the veranda steps and moved lightly, contentedly across the rolling lawn under the madrone trees to the bench overlooking the sea. There was a moon, there were stars; phosphorus glinted in the ocean, starlight and moonlight glinted in Dan's eyes. "Miss me?" she asked. "Hello, Ruth."

Dowager Queen Mary In Lifetime That Spanned the Reigns Of Six Monarchs, She Was Many Women

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

In her 85 years, Dowager Queen Mary was many women. She was a gay golden-haired princess. She was a proud, regal queen. She was a beloved queen mother. But, most of all, she was a family woman.

For her, the path to the throne, the years she sat on it and the years after she left it were often marked by personal tragedy because she had her family to share her grief. Mary always regarded the duties and privileges of a wife and mother as important as those of a queen.

In spite of that—or, perhaps, because of that—she became one of the most universally revered queens Britain ever had. Her lifetime spanned the reigns of six monarchs, from Queen Victoria to Queen Elizabeth. It spanned British history, as she saw England at its most powerful, saw it fight two world wars, saw pieces of the Empire break off, saw it in glory and in austerity.

Through the decades of transition, Mary remained the same. She was haughty when a queen should be haughty, but she could weep with the wives of trapped miners. When she sat on a throne, she looked like she was cast for the part by Mother Nature herself, but she could tramp through bomb-blasted cities for hours without growing tired.

She was, as a Cockney woman in Mile End Road, a poor section of Stepney, once told her, "Every inch a queen!" Even at 85, she was as straight as a scepter and as royal as a crown.

Princess Mary of Teck was born in Kensington Palace, London, on May 26, 1867. There was royal blood of many nations in her veins. Her great-grandfather was George III of England. She numbered, among her ancestors, rulers of Scotland, Hungary and many German states.

But her own family was not wealthy, by regal standards. In her childhood, she was frail and her mother nursed her herself. Princess Mary, as she was called—her baptismal name was Victoria. Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes—grew into a tall, blue-eyed beauty. She was the most striking beauty of the season at her "coming out" in 1886.

She was married in 1893 to George, then Duke of York. As Duchess of York, and later Princess of Wales, she spent what she often called the happiest years of her life. They lived in a small cottage on the royal Sandringham estate in Norfolk. It was so small, she liked to recall, that it had no spare bedroom.

It was a happy home. And it was there that five of her six children were born. The smallness of the house gave the family an intimacy many royal families lack. She had many state duties, but she was able to run her home in as close an approximation of housewifery as any princess has ever done.

That changed in 1911, when the Prince and Princess of Wales became King George V and Queen Mary, and their little cottage was swapped for a royal castle. There were more rituals and ceremonies and appearances to be made.

And there was a war to go through. As Queen, she became a symbol of a way of life. She won the admiration of her people without reservation. The love of her subjects was demonstrated in 1935, when the Royal Jubilee, marking 25 years on the throne, found millions hailing her warmly.

But a few months later, she became a widow. And a new set of tasks opened up for her. As Queen Mother—and, unofficially, Queen Grandmother—she became a kind of elder stateswoman to the royal family. She was always standing close by, ramrod-straight, on the balcony at state functions. She gave her sons and her grandchildren advice and comfort and love.

During the 18 years after her husband died, she and England went through much together. There was, first the romantic but trying episode involving her eldest son, Edward VIII, and Mrs. Wallis Simpson. And there was another, even more terrible, war. There was the post-war period of austerity and the decline of Great Britain from its former power.

Yet, outwardly, Queen Mary remained the same, a link with past glory. She always rose at 7:15 in the morning, and worked hard at her job. She never forgot for an instant that she was royalty.

Whatever she felt, in her heart, on the surface she was still a queen.

The samurai sword of Japan was a holy thing which required ritual purification by the smiths who forged it.

The Rio Grande is the third longest U. S. river.

Special Features Of Pupil Recital

Frances Spatafore, as guest pianist, was one of the feature attractions in the weekly student recital at Warren Conservatory of Music. Her two numbers, "Indian Love Call" by Friml and "The Man I Love" by Gershwin, were given with exceptional expression, beautiful tone, and unusual repose and grace at the keyboard.

Other special numbers were two duets played in fine rhythm and tone by Marilyn Pollett and Kathleen Kehrl; and duets played by Frances Richwalak and Kathleen Dombek, showing fine regard for a pleasing ensemble.

Others appearing on the evening's program were Michael Rice, Linda Nasman, Lola Deshner, Karen Graves, Carol Ann Harrison, Mollie Wendelboe, Cortland Carlson, Nancy Deshner, Thomas Nasman, Judy Roberts, Susan Marinoble, Karen Wise, Marcia Brown and Rita Musante.

This Intern Has Diagnosed The American Woman's Case

A WALK veteran, who is now interning in a large city hospital, took time out to write me a four-page letter about American girls. He thinks they usually get the wrong advice. So, here's the right advice as he sees it:

"The woman who appeals to men is essentially a 'Yes' woman. If she does disagree with a man she does so gently, making it plain that even though she doesn't agree with him on one point, she respects his opinion. And she always leaves the argument open by some such remark as 'You may be right after all.'"

"Such an attitude can have only one result. Not only does the man think her intelligent, but sweet and pleasant to boot. He feels she is someone nice to have around."

"It's the girl who is always sure she is right, always beating a man over the head with her ideas, who makes a man want to get away from the sound of her voice."

WIVES CAN USE ADVICE, TOO

THE doctor had these words of advice for wives:

"It has been my observation that the women who are so individualistic and opinionated as to be constantly at odds with their husbands are also at odds with their relatives, friends and associates. Eventually they wind up seeking medical advice. We must prescribe medicines and sedatives to relax their frayed nerves and suggest vacations from their husbands."

"Were I to so much as hint that their main trouble stemmed from their lack of a friendly, sweet attitude and their readiness to express their opinions, even when they knew it would lead to bitterness, how they would turn on me!"

"Show me a woman who is 'nitwit' enough to agree with me at all times and who is self-effacing enough to give me an exaggerated sense of importance, who quotes my opinions as gospel and is not concerned with integrating her personality with mine, and I will soon show you a woman with my engagement ring on her finger."

Well, there's the doctor's prescription. Let's hear what you women think of his old-fashioned remedy for what ails the modern woman.

"Messiah" Is One Of Greatest Works In Choral History

When the augmented choir of First Presbyterian church presents ten portions of "The Messiah" at 4:00 p. m. Palm Sunday in the church, it will be somewhat unlike choruses directed by the composer himself, in that he chose only highly trained men and boy singers. The only women who sang under his direction were the soprano and contralto soloists. Being a virtuoso at the organ, fandel directed by his accompaniment and nodding of his head. Due to the bigotry of London society, who derided his compositions as "blasphemous and dull".

the Messiah score was many times subjected to editorial indignities, besides the merciful butchering of amateur choruses and soloists, but its vitality has been phenomenal. The score always brings to its singers and listeners, alike, a touch of the infinity, a knowledge that here is music which stands head and shoulders above all other music.

The public is cordially invited to share in this Sunday afternoon service of choral worship.

Fighter's Death Is Ruled as Accidental

Lancaster (P)—The Lancaster County coroner has ruled that the death of a 17 year old amateur boxer here Monday night was accidental.

Dr. Charles P. Stahr said yesterday that Clifton Johnson, 147-pound Harrisburg Negro, died of a cerebral concussion and massive intracranial hemorrhages. Stahr said he was unable to determine the exact cause of the injury.

Charles Cator, 16, of Lancaster, floored the Johnson boy for the ten count in the third and final round of a Golden Gloves match at St. Joseph's Catholic Club. Johnson died several hours later in St. Joseph's Hospital.

We'll feel badly when our pleasant little waitress leaves the Cozy, but she assures us a nice replacement. The new face is also to be that of one that cheers.

Our friend Jack Updegraff returned Saturday morning from two weeks of radio schooling with the Naval Reserve in Brooklyn. He told us he was ill during part of his stay, but we're just wondering if it wasn't missing the trips up Anchor street. Along with Jack from here was John Tucker.

With the strong gale that has been blowing the last few days, we caught hold of a story that the young lady from New York has returned home to Pennsylvania Avenue east.

While cramming for something more to say, Chuck VerMilyea dropped in and said he just returned from Cincinnati, where he was taking a refresher course.

Defense Tactics of Red Sox Appear to Lack Needed Effect

By BEN OLAN
The Boston Red Sox, not long ago the vaunted power club in the American League, are going in more for defense this season. But their new tactics aren't paying off.

The Red Sox were shut out by the New York Yankees, 9-0, yesterday as Ray Scarborough and Bob Kuzava limited them to only four scattered singles. Outfielder Jim Piersall, third baseman George Kell and shortstop Milt Bolling were the only Boston players to hit safely.

The Sox now show a mediocre 8-8 exhibition game record.

Best evidence of Boston's decline in the long-distance hitting department is seen in their home run figures over the past three seasons. In 1950, the Sox' sluggers hit 161. In 1951, the slumped to 127 and last year their output was only 113 homers.

So far this spring, Red Sox players have connected for the circuit only eight times with first baseman Dick Gernert accounting for three of them. Gernert, with 19, was their top man in 1952, when the club dropped to sixth place.

Besides Gernert, Manager Lou Boudreau can count on only outfielders Hoot Evers and Clyde Vollmer and catcher Sammy White for the occasional long ball. Evers produced 14 homers last year, Vollmer 11 and White 10.

The Milwaukee Braves, the Red Sox' city rivals until last week, fared somewhat better yesterday. The Braves broke open a tie game in the eighth with three runs and added two in the ninth to whip the Philadelphia Athletics, (6-1). Rookie Don Liddle, Ernie Johnson and Lew Burdette turned in a combined four-hit pitching effort for

Warren Track Team Practice Out-of-Doors in Preparation For Triangular Meet April 2

Showing good pre-season spirit, the Warren High Dragon track and field squad has been working out of doors for a week in preparation for the triangular meet on the Beatty cinder oval, April 21.

While weather conditions haven't been ideal, the 60-man squad, Head Coach Loyal Briggs and assistant, Fred Bell, Coach Briggs said today that his thrills are shaping up good and there plenty of fine prospects, although no times have been taken yet.

Most of the time so far has been spent conditioning, although Coach Bell has started work with the field men. An intra-squad meet should be able to be held in the short future.

Coach Briggs has 12 letters back to work around this year. Bud Confer, John Fisher, Sam Leo, Bob Harrington, Dick Harty, Max Krespan, Don Mahan, Stan McClellan, Fahey Morley, Morley and Toby Shea.

Violation of Anti-Trust Laws Brings Sports Under Probe

Washington (P)—The Department of Justice says it is investigating "charges of violation of the antitrust laws in the field of sports"—but it is not planning an immediate inquiry into the case of the St. Louis Browns.

The Department also said, in a formal statement late yesterday, it has not ordered an immediate investigation of organized baseball.

The statement was issued after two Maryland congressmen wrote to Atty. Gen. Brownell asking him to look into the refusal of the American League club owners to let the St. Louis Browns move to Baltimore. One of them, Rep. Friedel (D.), said he had been advised by the attorney general's office that a prompt investigation would be made.

The department acknowledged receiving the letters from Friedel and Rep. Devereux (R), but denied that the attorney general had "ordered an immediate investigation into organized baseball" or into the club owners' action.

Its statement said the representatives "have been advised orally that their protests will be merged for consideration in connection with other charges of violation of the antitrust laws in the field of sports, which have been under investigation for some time."

Hot Stove Election At Meeting Tonight

The election of officers and a pointment of district chairmen will head the agenda at the opening session of the Warren Hot Stove League to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Trinity Memorial Parish House.

The meeting will be in charge of Charles Musante, who urges fine turnout of last year's leaders and any new and interested persons.

GMC TRUCKS
Gasoline 4,500 GVW to 90,000 GVW
Diesel 19,500 GVW to 100,000 GVW

No other light trucks have all this

YOU don't expect polo-pony agility from a truck in traffic—but the new GMC's have it.

You'd like to have passenger-car pace and economy on the highway—and you'll get it from the 1953 GMC's.

For there are two great advances that step the new GMC's ahead of all previous truck performance:

One: Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive—the fully automatic shift with 3 speeds for traffic, 4 for the open road—available on 19 models through the ½-, ¾- and 1-ton capacity range.

Two: a new line of engines of progressive design, with compression ratios of 7.5 to 1 and 8.0 to 1—the highest of any gasoline truck engine ever built. Here's pile-driver power behind every piston stroke—flashing response and better mileage are squeezed from regular fuel.

Many chassis advances, too, add to the extra-value features that make GMC's, point for point, the biggest dollar's worth in the light-truck field as well as in the heavier lines.

We confidently tell you—these great new GMC's will do your job better, easier, and at the lowest over-all cost. They have stamina beyond their size, because they're "built like the big ones"—the heavy-duty GMC's that lead the world in sales.

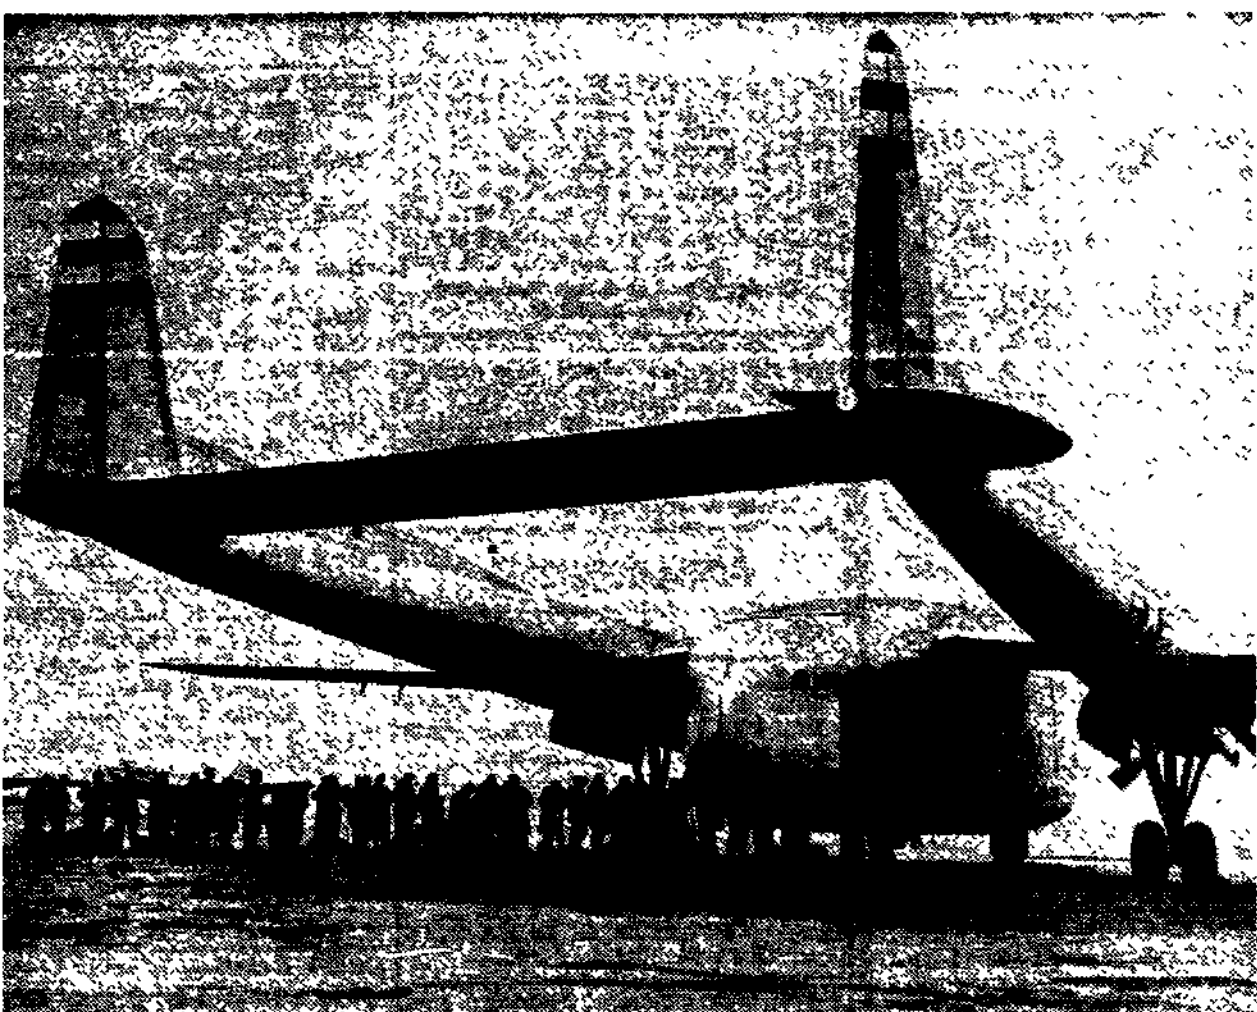

That's saying a lot. But just come in—and we'll prove it.

MAE WESTS FOR ALL—The twin tail booms of this C-119, one of the Air Force's famous two-engine flying boxcars, seem to fill the sky as GIs board it in Seoul, Korea, for a leave in Tokyo. Lined up at an airbase, the soldiers are fastening their "Mae West" life preservers as a safety precaution in case of the remote chance of a dunk while en route.

WILLING TO LEARN—Little Ann and David Clements cornered ace Brooklyn Dodger pitcher Preacher Roe in Vero Beach, Fla., and got some pointers on how to throw the ball. Since the Bums are in spring training near their home, the two youngsters are sure they have a chance to learn a lot about baseball.

COMPETING EXTREMES—The neckline and the hem vie for top interest in a black-on-white cotton daytime dress designed in Paris by Jean Desses. Dramatic and revealing, the beautifully draped neckline finishes the simple bodice that tops a generous skirt with pleated, flaring flounce. The attention-getting neckline adds distinction.

HEARTY SALUTE—The 634-foot Marine Angel, the largest ship ever to pass in one piece through the Mississippi River and Illinois Waterway, rated this salute from bridges spanning the Chicago River in the Windy City. The vessel was nearing the end of her Gulf-to-Great Lakes journey.

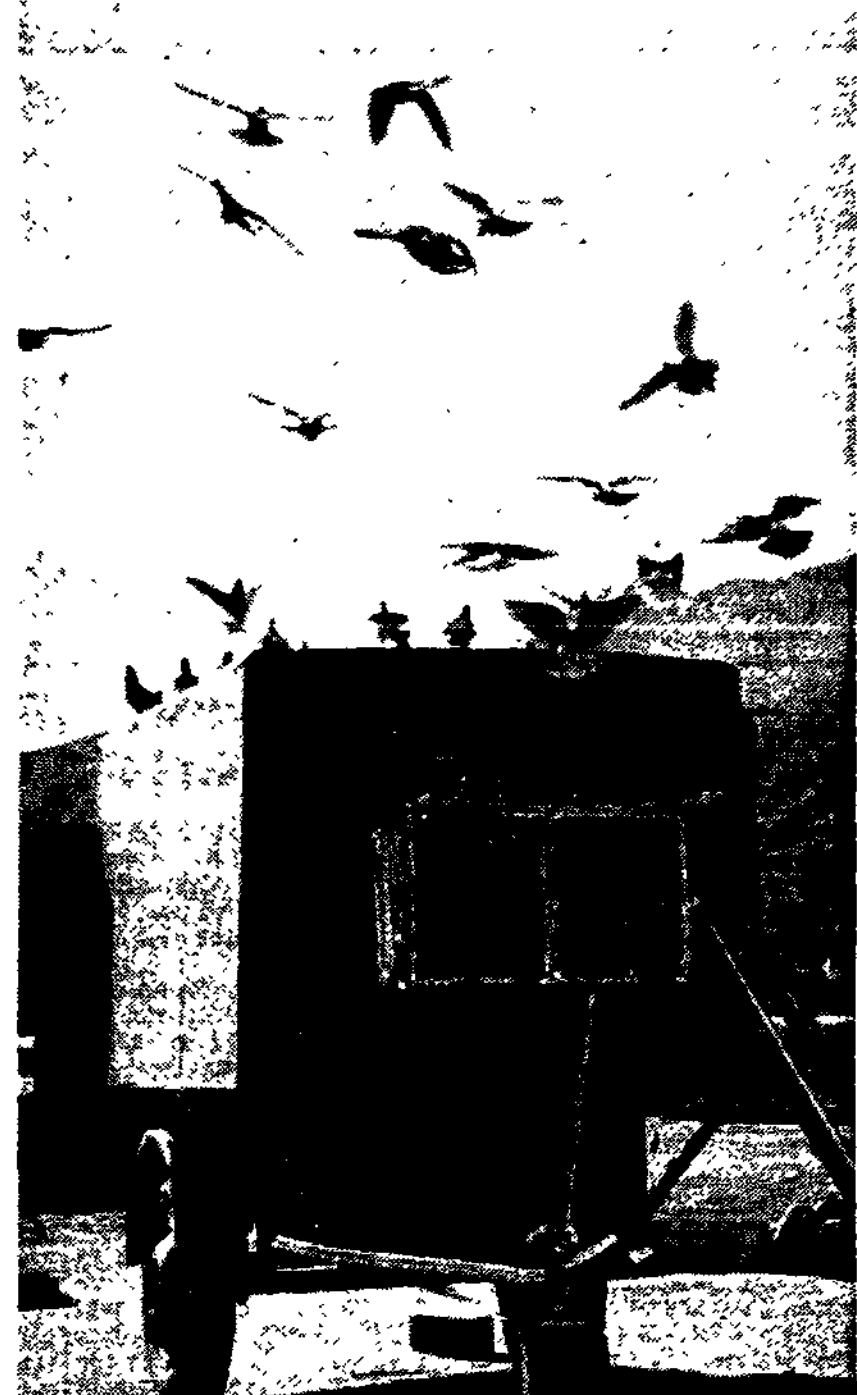

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU!

MOODS—At a cat show in Wiesbaden, Germany, a kitten must have become angry enough to bite those bars when it failed to win an award, upper left. The pelican at the London Zoo, right, seems to be more amiable as it poses for a photo. Roscoe, a ringtailed monkey at a zoo in Brookfield, Ill., looks as if he's just caught up with himself after saying something embarrassing; he's certainly got his foot in his mouth, lower left. But Herbert, a walrus at the Bronx, N. Y., Zoo is displaying contempt for visitors who have been making derogatory remarks about his appearance, right. He doesn't think they look like much, either.

WASH DAY—Workers in Southern Japan are out in the boat to wash bolts of cloth in a small stream near a factory. The material, used for making summer kimonos, is cool in the warm seasons and is said to resemble the Javanese batik.

NOTHING LIKE IT—U. S. Army homing pigeons, still used by the world's most modern mechanized force, form a haphazard traffic pattern as they come home to their loft in Korea. The birds are said to be indispensable in certain battle situations, despite the fact that their message-carrying is perhaps man's most venerable means of long-range communication.

COMING UP—Nature's first sign of spring near Munich, Germany, was a cluster of snowdrops with their nodding white flowers pushing bravely through some icy slush. A helping hand is seen digging the cold stuff away to give the snowdrops every chance of surviving. Nature being as it is, the flowers stand a good chance of reaching full maturity.

FARMERS' DAY—The famed Piazza Esedra is changed into a rural fair as hundreds of tractors and other farm implements are put on display in Rome. The equipment was turned over to farmers from Southern Italy under a new government plan to split up large tracts of land. Some of the ancient walls of the city can be seen at left.

GONE ARE THE DAYS—The time when a lady could take a bath with some privacy has disappeared in Hollywood. For a scene in "The Golden Blade," lovely Piper Laurie took a bath in this ornate tub, with the assistance of technicians, bubble-bath testers and an assortment of onlookers.

THE MAGIC EGG—The Little People's Easter Story

NO ELECTRICITY
A faulty lighting arrester on the lines of the Warren Electric Cooperative of Youngville, Monday resulted in power to hundreds of homes in the western part of the county being off for approximately two hours. Lightning struck lines near Wrightsville and knocked them out of commission. A total of 40 miles of lines which serve residents in the Columbus, Lottsville and Blue Eye district was affected.

Chairman Named For Third Grade Teachers

Miss Frances Grosch, principal and third grade teacher at East Street School, became chairman of the third grade teachers in Warren boro schools at a meeting of that group held at the home of Gerald M. Newton, director of instruction and curriculum.

In preparation for the use of Mental Maturity Tests being given in all third grades this week, the teachers discussed the manual instruction booklet for the test.

They considered textbooks in use and made plans for a cooperative effort in preparing instructional materials.

The teachers will continue their work when they meet at the home of Miss Grosch this evening.

Highway Work Is Halted by Strike

Pittsburgh (AP)—Construction work on 25 million dollars worth of public highway, bridge and street projects in 33 counties is rapidly closing down today in an AFL strike.

The dispute centers on the AFL Heavy Construction Council demand for a 15-cent hourly wage increase and an additional 7 1/2 cents an hour for a welfare fund. Present wage scales were not disclosed.

Neither the union nor the Constructors Association of Western Pennsylvania could estimate how widespread a work stoppage has developed. The walkout, which began yesterday, is expected to involve 200 construction firms employing about 11,000 men.

Abolishment of Two Departments Doubted

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, Republican floor leader said today he doubted if the Internal Affairs and Commerce Departments and the Milk Control Commission will be abolished by the Legislature.

Elimination of all three agencies has been recommended by the Chesterman Committee as part of an economy move to save 100 million dollars a biennium by 1960.

Pennsylvania Officer Is Atomic Volunteer

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP)—A Punxsutawney colonel was among the nine volunteer military officers who volunteered an atomic blast from only 2,500 yards distance yesterday.

He was Col. Max S. George, who crouched unhurt in a foxhole as the Air Force flew a dozen B-36 bombers near the heart of the brilliant blast. The officers were selected from a special group of volunteers.

Philipsburg Hospital Asks $21,000 Repairs

Harrisburg (AP)—The House today studied a request to appropriate $21,000 to be used for improving the water system at Philipsburg State Hospital.

Rep. Preston A. Frost (R.-Centre) introduced the bill yesterday. It calls for the state property and supplies department to see that the work is completed.

Ceramic tiles were used in 16th century Spain not only for floors and walls, but for ceilings of homes, to aid in keeping rooms cool.
